

Project Overview

The Municipality of Inverness County is taking an important step toward modernizing critical infrastructure in the community of Inverness. Phase One of the Central Avenue Rebuild Project set to begin following the recent award of a construction tender to Brilun Construction Ltd.

Central Avenue Rebuild will involve a full reconstruction of Central Avenue, including:

New water and wastewater piping and associated infrastructure.

Replacement of an existing wastewater lift station located near the Central Avenue trail crossing.

Improved sidewalks, multi-use paths, and crosswalks.

Streetscape and beautification enhancements.

A fully reconstructed roadway with upgraded stormwater systems, delivered in partnership with the Nova Scotia Department of Public Works.

PROJECT TIMELINE

Phase One extends from the intersection of Broad Cove Banks Road to James Street.

Construction is expected to begin in late June and continue through December 2026.

Future phases are planned to continue from James Street to the Inverness County Centre for the Arts (ICCA) driveway and include additional infrastructure upgrades, such as a new wastewater lift station at the ICCA driveway. The timing and scope of future phases will depend on market volatility and contractor availability.

WHAT RESIDENTS CAN EXPECT

Construction will create temporary impacts for residents, businesses, commuters, and visitors. The Municipality will work closely with the contractor to minimize disruptions wherever possible and maintain access to homes, businesses, and community facilities throughout construction.

Additional information regarding construction schedules, traffic impacts, detours, and project milestones will be shared as details are confirmed.

STAY INFORMED

The Municipality will be hosting a public open house, with the date and location to be announced in the coming weeks.
